
CAREER GOALS

JEREMY M. GEORGE

My anticipated graduation date is August 5th, 2017. Following graduation and the conferral of my degree, it is my plan to achieve the following goals within three years:

1. Secure full time, salaried position in the mental health field while maintaining available hours as an LPCA at Life Care Counseling and Coaching on Fridays and Saturdays.
2. Accrue sufficient clinical hours and achieve full licensure as a Licensed Practicing Counselor in the state of North Carolina.
3. Develop a consistent clientele in order to transition from counseling in an agency setting to engaging full time in private practice.

My plan to achieve this goals is simple and straightforward. I will apply to agencies in the Raleigh, Durham area of North Carolina and secure dependable, salaried employment in a role appropriate for my expertise. I will maintain available hours at Life Care Counseling and Coaching, the current site at which I am completing my fourth consecutive internship. As I develop a consistent clientele, I will begin to transition from clinical work in an agency setting to clinical work in a private practice setting. My goal is to practice independent of an agency. However, working in an agency setting is a key component in accruing the requisite clinical hours in order to achieve full licensure status as an LPC.
